OUR STORY

In 1981, the Rumble family bought the property from the Gabler family. They added an addition to the backside of the original building to have a game room for the local kids. Unfortunately, the 1985 Election Day Flood destroyed the interior. The Ice Plant remained vacant for 17 years.

Curt & Lisa Rumble Miller bought the property and soon began renovations to revive the Ice Plant of the past. The doors opened for the restaurant in June 1996. They transformed the upper level to a bar in 1999 with the original accents preserved.

March 2001, a fire struck due to a transformer failure. The original building survived; the addition was destroyed. After extensive renovations and a new floor plan, the restaurant reopened in August.

On January 5, 2014, a horrific fire struck once again. This time, destroying the original beloved Ice Plant. The loss was devastating for Lisa and the lot remained vacant for four years. In 2018, the original pavilion was enclosed to begin rebuilding the restaurant. The doors on the walls of the dining room are original from the Gabler homestead found on the property.

The original Ice Plant stood where the outside patio is located. Rick Krajnak built the wall and used block preserved from the fire to cap the wall. The block is in its original state from the time of the fire.
